6th Annual Credit and Collections for Utilities

June 3 – 4, 2008

OVERVIEW

Economic downturn, increasing bad debt, and changing customer payment behavior are just a few issues keeping utility credit and collection professionals on their toes. But even as the economy and customers change, utilities can still guide their performance and advance their bottom line through credit risk reduction and improved collection strategies.

At EUCI's 6th Annual Credit and Collections for Utilities conference, hear how utilities from across the country are finding new ways to reduce delinquency, prioritize resources, and lower operating costs.

Featuring utility case studies from:

- Xcel Energy
- Wisconsin Public Service
- We Energies
- Washington Gas Light Company
- Stream Energy
- Sacramento Municipal Utility District
- Las Vegas Valley Water District
- Dominion Power

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Credit and collections directors, managers, supervisors, and team leaders should attend our 6th Annual Credit and Collections for Utilities conference. This event will also assist professionals within the customer service arm of your organization to include call center and customer service directors, billing professionals, and analysts.

Program Agenda

Day 1 Tuesday, June 3, 2008

12:30 – 1:00 p.m. Registration

1:00 – 1:10 p.m. Greeting and Opening Remarks

Conference Chair: Bruce A. Gay, President, Monticello Consulting Group

1:10 – 2:10 p.m.

The Economy: Where We Are, Economic Trends, and the Forecast for Utilities

Bob Cooke, Director, Customer Operations, Bass & Company Management Consultants

Bankruptcies have increased 30% from a year ago, fuel costs are continuing to climb, foreclosures are at an all time high, and lending institutions are struggling for survival. What is going on out there?

Out of the plethora of information bombarding and alarming us on a daily basis, find out which pieces of data are critical to examine and how to use them to forecast your delinquency and predict your customers' ability to pay. Get a preview of what's in store over the next few years and learn some prudent steps you can take to offset the impacts to your collections and write-offs. The economy may seem out of control, but you can still guide your performance.

6th Annual Credit and Collections for Utilities

June 3 – 4, 2008

Program Agenda

Day 1 Tuesday, June 3, 2008 (Continued)

2:10 – 3:00 p.m. Xcel Energy's Credit Transformation – "Drastic Times Require Extraordinary Actions"

Michael Gersack, Managing Director, Revenue Cycle, Xcel Energy

Faced with rising delinquencies, increasing write-offs, and limited resources in a hostile economic environment, Xcel embarked on a journey to revolutionize their approach to credit and collections. "Business as usual" was no longer acceptable.

In this session, hear strategies and actions that changed the tide:

- How Xcel reversed the write-off trend
- Transformation tactics to reduce active delinquency
- The process to metamorphosize final billed collections
- How the change was tamed and the momentum maintained

3:00 – 3:30 p.m. Networking Break

3:30 – 4:30 p.m. Improving Collections Returns in Difficult Financial Times

Dennis Huston, Supervising Customer Representative, Customer Operations
Sacramento Municipal Utility District

The Sacramento Municipal Utility District (SMUD), the sixth largest municipal utility in the US, has tackled increasing net write-offs with a collaborative effort from their credit, contact center, and field forces in implementing an impressive number of credit & collections process improvements over the last 18 months. In this session, SMUD will share its journey of increased field collection efforts, changes in deposit and installment policies, implementation of early-outs, automation of their final bill process, and use of outbound dialing in their ongoing efforts to educate and partner with their customers to change payment behaviors.

4:30 – 5:15 p.m. Want Less Bad Debt? Reach Deeper into Your Customer Data

Christopher Crabtree, Director of Financial Risk, Stream Energy

In 2007, Stream Energy began a new program to lower its bad debt expense and speed up its final bills collections. Hear how the Texas utility:

- Incorporated balance transfer technology that identified $1,242,113 in inactive debt that was transferred to active collections in 2007
- Worked with utility-specific debt rules, regulations, and philosophies
- Automated its account balance transfers
- Reduced overall fraud through better customer identification

5:15 – 6:15 p.m. Networking Reception

Testimonials

"Excellent networking opportunity."
J.F., Operations Manager, Credit and Collections, We Energies

"This conference was a great introduction of the world of credit and collections."
M.L., Supervisor, Credit and Collections, Portland General Electric

6th Annual Credit and Collections for Utilities

June 3 – 4, 2008

Program Agenda

Day 2 Wednesday, June 4, 2008

8:00 – 8:30 a.m. Continental Breakfast

8:35 – 9:35 a.m. Change Collections as the Completion of the Sale

Abe Walking Bear Sanchez, Principal, International Profit Circle and Developer of Profit System of Credit and A/R Management

Past dues aren't just accounts, they are people. And marketing is an important aspect of completing the collections process. This lively, informative hour may just change the way you look at your job and your customer.

Explore:

- Change in collections over the last 40 years
- Why customers don't pay – completing the sale
- The four step sales approach to past due A/R management (not collections)
- Feeding forward from the back of the parade
- Passion – sing every song like it's your last

9:35 – 10:30 a.m. Implementing IVR into Your Collections Initiatives

Jean Frelka, Operations Manager, Credit and Collections, We Energies

We Energies recently took a bold step to implement an IVR into its collections initiatives. By coordinating collections activities with the call center, We Energies has reduced the number of inbound calls to call center agents by 34% and improved its collection timeline and customer satisfaction in the process. Hear how the utility managed the IVR launch and improved its customer communications.

10:30 – 11:00 a.m. Networking Break

11:00 a.m. – 12:30 p.m. Segmenting Your Customer Base for Improved Collections

Moderator: *Bob Cooke, Director, Customer Operations
Bass & Company Management Consultants*

Panelists: *Chuck Bedall, Technical Consultant/Six Sigma Master Black Belt, Dominion
Alisa Mann, Customer Service Director, Las Vegas Valley Water District
Pam Brooks, Credit and Collections Supervisor, Las Vegas Valley Water District
Michael Gersack, Managing Director, Revenue Cycle, Xcel Energy*

One size does not fit all! Recognizing customer behavior and knowing the best response pays huge dividends through improved collections and enhanced operations. But which traits are most important to monitor, how should customers be categorized, and what are the most effective treatments?

In this facilitated panel, hear from three utilities that have found success in reducing delinquency, prioritizing resources, and lowering operating costs through tailored segmentation strategies. Right size your collections through segmentation!

12:30 – 1:30 p.m. Group Luncheon

6th Annual Credit and Collections for Utilities

June 3 – 4, 2008

Program Agenda

Day2 Wednesday, June 4, 2008 (Continued)

1:30 – 2:15 p.m. Bad Debt Balance Transfers – A Fresh Look at Long-Term Performance

Bruce A. Gay, President, Monticello Consulting Group

Many utilities transfer previously charged off account balances to active accounts when former customers re-apply for new service or when account matches are found in the active customer database. Wisconsin Public Service recently reviewed its balance transfer process and discovered some interesting results. This session will examine the long-term performance of WPS's balance transfer process and detail what really happens to accounts, past due balances, charge offs, and the financial impacts.

2:15 – 3:00 p.m. Outsourcing Your Credit and Collections Department – The Costs versus Benefits

Nasser Akari, Director, Credit and Collections, Washington Gas Light Company

Now more than ever, utilities are focused on reducing cost and improving performance. In an effort to continuously increase efficiency, Washington Gas Light Company outsourced its credit and collections department in 2007. Hear how the utility weighed the pros and cons to reach its decision to outsource, what its results have been to date, and how it achieved effective service level agreements to help manage credit risk within an outsourced environment.

3:00 – 3:30 p.m. Networking Break

3:30 – 4:50 p.m. Open Forum Discussion – What are Other Utilities Doing to Improve Their Credit and Collections? Ask them!

This facilitated discussion offers an excellent format to visit with other companies to gain best practices in minimizing risk and maximizing collections.

Topics in this discussion include:

- Reducing customer fraud
- Minimizing risk with security deposits
- Increasing collection agency performance
- Best practices in managing bankrupt accounts

4:50 p.m. Closing Remarks and Conference Adjourns
